Membership Form 2007

Help conserve Laikipia's wildlife...

by supporting the pioneering wildlife management and community conservation programmes of the Laikipia Wildlife Forum (LWF), a dynamic, membership driven organisation conserving wildlife outside protected areas across the Ewaso ecosystem.

Conservation in Action reflects the spirit of the people who take part in this forum, which brings together private ranchers, small scale farmers, pastoralists, local community initiatives, and tourism ventures. They are united by a common goal - to conserve the integrity of the Laikipia ecosystem, by creatively managing natural resources to improve the livelihood of its people.

Over the past ten years the LWF has placed Laikipia District firmly at the forefront of Kenyan wildlife conservation. Increasingly acknowledged as one of the most important areas for biodiversity in Kenya, wildlife population densities in the Laikipia region now rank second to the internationally renowned Maasai Mara ecosystem. The Ewaso eco-system is home to the second largest population of elephant in Kenya (5,400) and hosts the highest populations of endangered species such as rhino (over half Kenya's total population), Grevy's zebra, and reticulated giraffe in the country, as well as the only viable population of Lelwel hartebeest, an expanding population of wild dog, and significant numbers of other large predators
